

one of the most annoying things is having my evening meal interrupted by a telemarketer. That has not happened in awhile, thankfully, let's keep it that way. I do get an annoying recorded message occasionally.

Why anyone would buy anything this obnoxious people are selling is beyond me. Any unsolicited call makes me angry, and I would not buy anything they are selling, period.

This is the age of the Internet, why bother with a phone call.

Would you want a salesperson to call you at dinner tonight?